"Good morning, motor"

"GOOD morning, Boss. Say, talking about horrible examples, you ought to look over that car next door. He was just coughing the bad tale across the hedge. Seems that his boss is a big game hunter—drives all over town looking for cheap hobo gas. Whenever he sees a pump with a cut price, he fills the tank. Buys his oil at the same places. If ever a motor had the T. B. that poor car has it. He's so choked up he can hardly inhale his gas. His bearings are so worn and loose, it sounds like a milk wagon going over cobble even when he's idling. Says his cylinders are in terrible shape. When he was new a year ago, he did eighteen to the gallon and only gets about seven now. Ain't it a pity, Boss? There ought to be a law against abusing motors."

HORSES IN TRAINING

After spending a great deal of time and money the race track on the fair grounds is now practically completed. The section near the grandstand has been laid in and graded, making the track level in all places. All that is needed now is a new fence. Several groups of horses have already occupied some of the stalls; they are, Frank Fox of Lewiston, with nine horses, Ralph L. Burgess, Norway, with two horses, George Hill, Norway, four horses, G. F. Felton, Norway, with one and Thomas Wheeler of Augusta, with two horses. A great many more men and horses are expected at the track next week and from then until the first fair the grounds will be a busy scene of training and try-outs. This is one of the most popular training tracks in the state and many of the leading trotting horses come here.

Arthur T. Walden was in town the first of the week, looking after the snowshoes and tent poles which the Tubbis factory is making for the Byrd Expedition. Everything was quiet among the dogs at Woonace, Chinook came along to call on his friends, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cummings. Fred H. Cummings is proudly displaying a big Moosehead Lake salmon sent him by Elgin Greenleaf, who is at Sugar Island.

Charles Ellingwood and Paul Norve went to Mt. Washington, Saturday night, and about one o'clock Sunday morning started for the top of the mountain. They were with them, people on the way at that early hour. They arrived at the top for a beautiful sunrise, but it failed to appear through the mass of clouds. Luckman's Ravine, which is so popular with hiking parties, is looking better and better. No one is allowed to go up as yet, but a crew is working there, blasting out the snow, and hope to have it passable for tourists soon. The Tip-Top House opened for business, Monday, June 25.

George H. Bennett has finished one boat and is building another for Ransom Cole of Greenwood Center. They are of the flat bottom type.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Tubbis and Mrs. Doris Willis had an enjoyable motor trip, Saturday, through Lowell, Conway and Bridgton.

THE NORWAY (OXFORD COUNTY, ME.) ADVERTISER, FRIDAY, JUNE 29, 1928.

Arthur Tucker and son, Arthur Jr., have been in Farmington a few days during the past week. Mrs. Dora Farnham and son, Archie, of Rumford, John Barrett, Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. W. Woodfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Davenport, West Sumner, visited Mrs. Mabel Foster this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Newell, Paris Street. A collision between a car and a truck and a Ford sedan, occurred Wednesday evening on the cement road near Twichell's farm. The accident was caused by the dog in the road, which the driver of the Ford tried to avoid. Swearing to miss the dog, the sedan collided with the truck and rolled over, smashing most of the glass. Both the occupants of the Ford, Miss Barbara Gray and Kenneth Sampson of South Paris received numerous cuts, but no serious injuries resulted. Aggie Brown and his two tree climbing acrobats, Arthur, Stockholm, and Freddy Hearn of the John Lucas Tree Expert Company of Portland have not only done a great deal of good by trimming out the limbs but have furnished amusement and entertainment on the street. Their work among the high, risky branches of Norway's elms is full of danger and exciting incidents, but so far no accidents have happened. Mr. Brown, however, makes no attempt at the aerial side of the work. Tuesday evening, July 10, at 7 o'clock, there will be a lecture at the Chapel Schoolhouse, North Norway, by Rev. Herbert H. Holland on "God in the Gaps, or What Evolution Has Evolved." The question is, "Are You Any Relation to a Monkey?" Come and find out. Sunday school Sundays at 10 o'clock.

BODY SQUEAKS
A mixture of kerosene and lubricating oil, forced between the body crevices with a squirt gun, or a brush, will overcome body squeaks. Rocking the car will permit the mixture to penetrate. Of course it is necessary to see that all bolts are tight.

Another excellent remedy is to loosen the body bolts, then back them up with grease. The grease will work over the bolts when tightening and prevent many squeaks from this source.

BETHEL

Alicia Ellen Kendall Grover

The community was saddened, Wednesday forenoon, June 20th, to hear that Alicia Ellen Kendall Grover had passed on that last long journey that all must take. A wide circle of friends and relatives in Maine and Massachusetts and even as far as California, will miss the cordial handclasp, the cheery smile and voice of welcome with which she greeted one and all. She has been in rather frail health for many years but had made light of her troubles. She was the daughter of Justus Jasper and Marcia A. (Merrill) Kendall and was born in 1855, at their home in the beautiful South River valley, in the town of Newry. There were six sisters and three brothers to help make life happy. One sister died in infancy, but the others grew to man and womanhood. One by one they all passed on until only nephews and nieces are left.

Mrs. Grover was educated in the town schools and Gould Academy. For many years she was a successful teacher, even after her marriage to George Kendall, of Albany, where they lived on a farm for a long time. The lessons her pupils learned were not to be forgotten easily, and she cared for them all like a mother, soothing their hurts, their ills, and settling their childhood troubles and teaching them many a lesson in manners and good citizenship. In fact she was one of those rare, old-fashioned teachers, who are fast becoming but a memory of the past, when teachers taught school for the love of it, not for the fun of it as so many do nowadays. After she gave up teaching, they sold the farm and purchased the place now owned by A. A. Bruce at Albany Township, where they conducted a successful country store for a number of years. The health of both Mr. and Mrs. Grover caused them to sell and they purchased a home in Norway village. While living in Albany, Mrs. Grover became a member of Round Mountain Grange, where she served as Lecturer and in many ways proved her worth as a true Patron of Husbandry.

After living in Norway for a few years, they moved to South Bethel, where Mr. Grover passed away in October 1910, after a long and painful illness, faithfully cared for by his wife. After his death, she sold the place and spent some time with relatives and friends in Massachusetts. After recovering her health, she returned to Maine and for some time was housekeeper for Miss Libby, the photographer, of Norway, and her aged father. While in Norway, she had her membership transferred to Norway Grange, where she served as Lecturer for some time. She was intensely interested in the work of the order and was a member of Oxford Pomona, the Maine State and the National Granges. She was a well read woman who kept abreast of the times in all world wide events. She was as interested in the progress of the pupils of this generation as she was of those she taught.

After the death of her sister, Mrs. George Smith, she kept the home fire burning for her nephew and niece, Daniel and Ruby Smith. After their niece's marriage, she mothered the nephew as though her own son. Since his marriage, she has lived alone keeping the old home open for their many friends and relatives who were always sure of a welcome from her. She had been up and about the house as usual, prepared her items for the local and county papers, and phoned her friends on Tuesday. She had been a faithful and efficient newspaper correspondent for many years. Death came in her sleep with no visible pain, just as she had often expressed the wish to go. A profusion of flowers were about tokens of esteem. Members of Bethel Grange attended in a body. Rev. Mr. Sinclair of Gorham, N. H., spoke words of sympathy to the relatives, neighbors and friends, gathered in silent tribute. The services were conducted by S. S. Greenleaf in a most able manner. The bearers were four nephews, Sherman Merrill of Bethel, Elton Swan of Swan's Corner, Daniel Smith of Bethel, and Anson Kendall of Cambridge, Mass. Interment was in the old family lot in the cemetery in her beloved Sunday River Valley.

YOU CAN RELY ON McCORMICK-DEERING SPREADERS FOR GOOD WORK.

The time and labor you save by using a McCormick-Deering Spreader amounts to cash equivalent to a substantial payment. The increased crop production you can get by spreading manure evenly and thinly over more acres will lower production costs so much that you cannot afford to continue hand spreading.

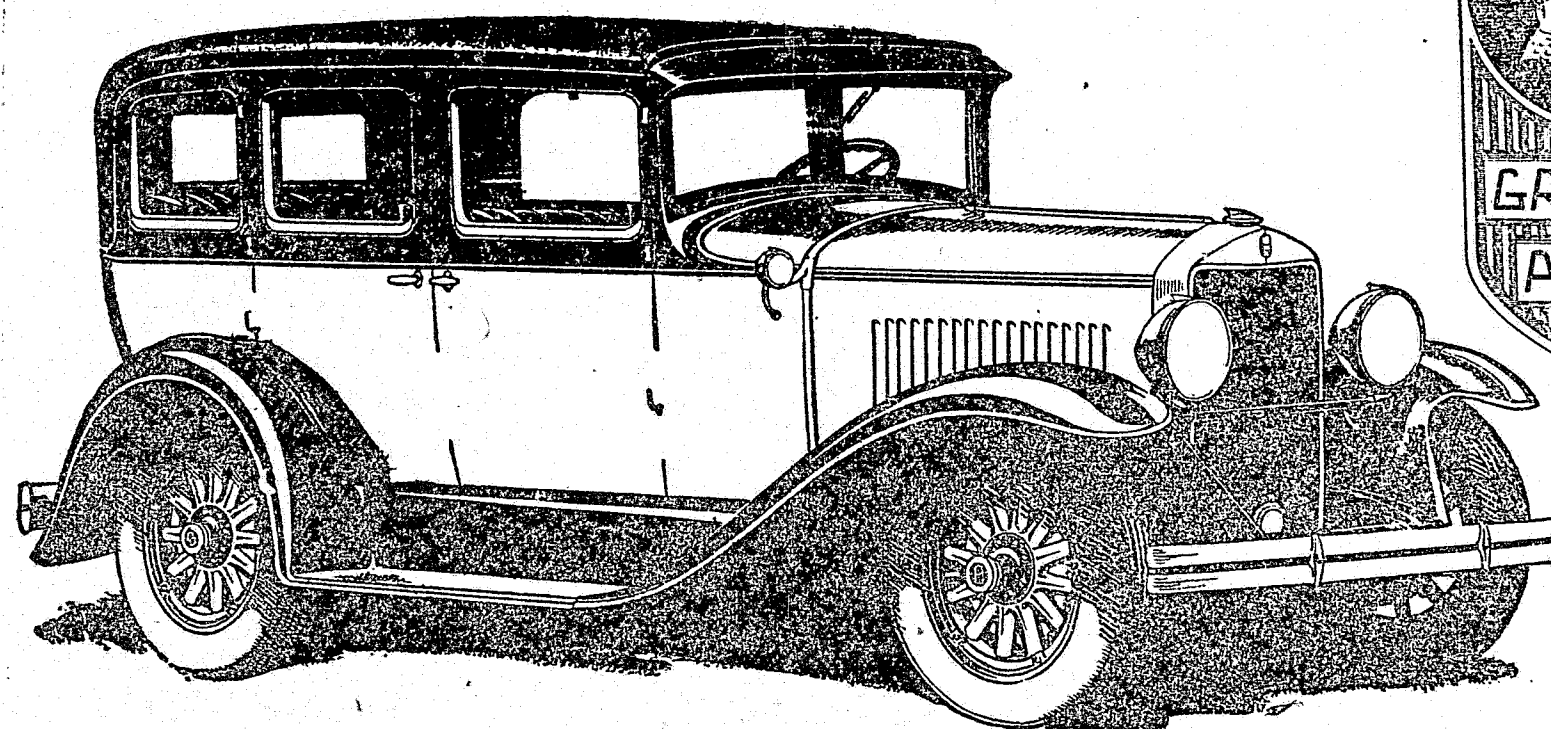

The patented widespread spiral on the McCormick-Deering accounts for the exceptionally wide spread. It is never necessary to drive over freshly spread manure.

The light draft of McCormick-Deering spreaders increases their durability and makes possible spreading full-capacity loads without overloading teams. Their durability extends the purchase price over years of continuous usage.

Now is the time to spread manure and today is the day to ask us for prices.

The Trumbull Players Present "Steve". The Trumbull Players, under a new director, Kenneth Haviland, presented "Steve", at the Association Hall, South Paris, last Friday evening. The play opened with Peggy Barrell on the stage as a dumb-Dora character, "Aunt Josie." Dick Brannan, another new actor, was back to the audience, busily engaged in taking moving pictures. Miss Barrell's work in this part was very good, but did not meet the high standard of dumb-Dora actors.

The setting of the play was an obscure island off the coast of Portland and the plot centered around local scandal and the operations of a movie company who were working there. Steve, the leading character, played by Mr. Trumbull, was the big movie man and through his efforts the home-town fassie won her way to fame in the movies. The scandal and bad reputation which the villain had brought upon the innocent little girl vanished, as usual, in the rush of success but the conventional lower back hanger failed in his duty. The handsome gentleman from the city, who so often tricks country lasses, proved true to the end.

The action of the entire three acts took place in the home of Grammy Lube, Helen Kinsler, another new member, took this part and did it very well. Isabel Gould, as always, did excellently, taking the part of Grammy Lube's orphan granddaughters, and of course the leading role. Lawrence Trumbull as Steve kept up his spotless record of good acting and thrilled the audience with every word he spoke.

Only four out of the seven actors in the cast were former members of the company, but to all appearances they are a very capable and in every way an excellent company. Three of the new players, namely Dolores Perry, Dick Brannan and Hugh Catrus entertained between the acts. Mr. Brannan gave a comic selection, Mr. Catrus sang a very fine solo and Miss Perry kept up the spirits of the audience continually with her brilliant piano playing. Her imitation of a movie theatre pianist was both natural and laughable. Judging from the presentation of "Steve" it is safe to say that the Trumbull Players have started a record season. They always play to a packed house in South Paris and their audience is not lacking in appreciation for fine work. They will present "If I Was Rich" the 6th of July.
